Concerns over the overlay

I am very concerned about older people having to dial the full 10 digits. And, for all, I think it would be easier. Wouldn't it be easier just to break off part of the 801 area and give them the new area code. Does this really add more available numbers? I would like to suggest that even at this late date, the new area code go into effect for an area and then add additional area codes as needed. It may someday get to where Salt Lake City proper only has an area code, or two and the rest of the state has several area codes.
